- Prompt box (call to action)
- 'Tutorial dates' link within module section
- 'Your tutorials' link under 'Tools'
- 'Your tutorials' link above 'module sections'

Prompt box (call to action)

Scenarios:

- Student has no tutorials available
 - This scenario should not happen as tutorials are arranged 3 months prior to module start dates.
- Student has 1 or more tutorials available on a single module
 - Text should read: 'Book your next tutorial: Visit Your Tutorials to see available dates and locations'
 - This hyperlink will go to the Your tutorials page where students can see an overview of their currently booked tutorials, past tutorials, a link to 'additional study events' and also a prompt to say 'You currently have not booked on a tutorial. Select <enter module names> to book.'
- Student has 1 or more tutorials available on multiple modules
 - Text should read: 'Book your next tutorial: Tutorials are currently available for modules B716, B800'
 - These hyperlinks will go to the relevant 'Tutorials for xxxx' page where students can select dates and book tutorials
 - Note: It is expected that there will not be more than 3 modules being studied at one time but if there are the wording can cope - just add another comma-separated value.
- If box does not appear, students can use the 'Tutorial dates' link in their module sections or the 'Your tutorials' link under 'Tools' and the 'Your tutorials' link in the qualification links box above the modules, in the middle column.

'Tutorial dates' link

Scenarios:

- Student has tutorials available for 1 or more modules
 - Links to 'Tutorials for xxxx' page
- Student has no tutorials available
 - Links to 'Tutorials for xxxx' page

The link is always there no matter what scenario.

'Your tutorials' link under 'Tools'

Scenarios:

- Student has tutorials available for 1 or more modules
 - Links to 'Your tutorials'
- Student has no tutorials available
 - Links to 'Your tutorials'

The link is always there no matter what scenario.

'Your tutorials' link above 'module sections'

Scenarios:

- Student has tutorials available for 1 or more modules

The screenshot shows the 'Your tutorials' page on The Open University website. At the top, there is a navigation bar with 'StudentHome', 'Profile', 'Study' (highlighted), 'Community', and 'Help Centre'. Below this is a 'Book a tutorial' section with a link to 'Book tutorials for B716, B839 or book additional study events.' The main content is divided into two sections: 'Your upcoming tutorials' and 'Your past tutorials'. The 'Your upcoming tutorials' section shows a table with one row for a tutorial on 09/06/2016 at the Camden Community Centre. The 'Your past tutorials' section shows a table with one row for a tutorial on 20/08/2015 at Oxford Brookes. The footer contains contact information for The Open University, a privacy and cookies notice, and the StudentHome Learning Support Library logo.

- 'Extra events from your tutor'
- 'Additional study events'

Intro paragraph

Scenarios:

- Student has tutorials available for 1 or more modules
- Student has no tutorials available
- Student has additional study events
- Student has no additional study events

For all of the above scenarios, the following should be applied:

- Text reads 'XXXX has Y tutorials. Z of these tutorials are compulsory. Use the tutorial planner below to book your tutorials.'
 - X = module code
 - Y = total number of tutorials (including additional study events)
 - Z = total number of compulsory tutorials within Y
 - Fields X, Y and Z are to be populated accordingly with the lowest number displayed being '0'.

Tutorial planner (table)

Table fields:

- Tutorial title
 - Format TBC - may need to add descriptive element such as 'Tutorial 1' as students have stated this helps to see progress.
 - Compulsory tutorials will require '(compulsory)' adding in red, bold text after the Tutorial title.
- Purpose
 - Purpose of tutorial, e.g. 'Prepare for your first assignment'
- Available between
 - dd/mm/yyyy - dd/mm/yyyy
 - Data used will be earliest and latest tutorial date
- Select dates
 - If tutorial dates are available then display 'Select dates' and link to 'XXXX Tutorial Y' page
 - X = module code
 - Y = tutorial number
 - If tutorial dates have passed, display 'No longer available'
 - If tutorial date is booked, display tick icon and date (dd/mm/yyyy) in green. Refer to Tutorials for B716 for design example.

Scenarios:

- Student has one or more tutorials available
 - All fields populated as per Table fields: specification
- Student has not booked on any tutorials
 - All fields populated as per Table fields: specification

- Student has booked on one or more tutorials
 - All fields populated as per Table fields: specification
- One or more tutorials in the table have passed
 - All fields populated as per Table fields: specification
- Student has no tutorials available
 - This scenario is unlikely to happen with the exception that once all tutorial dates have passed, none will be available. In this case the 'Select dates' field will display 'No longer available' as per spec. above.

'Extra events from your tutor'

Table fields:

- Tutorial title
 - Format TBC
- Purpose
 - Purpose of tutorial, e.g. 'Prepare for your first assignment'
- Date
 - Date of tutorial - format: dd/mm/yyyy
